WALL STREET NOTES.

THE NEW BATES OF COMMISSION-AN OPPOSI-TION BOURSE PROJECTED-PACIFIC MAIL-THE SALE OF THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Yesterday Wall street was quiet. The fluctuaions in the market will be found recorded in the appropriate column. The outside public do not seem to be willing to take any new speculative ventures until the Moguls of the Exchange more clearly define their policy, although it was observable that any strength in the market was responded to with alacrity, while the occasional depressions seemed to be achieved with great effort. One thing especially calculated to cause dulness is the high rates of commission recently stablished by the Governing Committee. This has entirely cut off the army of small speculators from active trading, and so universal is the sentiment in opposition to it that a call has been issued for the organization of a new Bourse, after the Paris model. All in isvor of the movement are invited to meet at the Pitth Avenue Hotel on Thursday evening next, at eight o'clock. The originators of the call say they can procure a charter from the State to legalize transactions, and that a room in the City Hail will be procured for their purpose. It is well known that the Governing Committee carried through their soneme by the "whip," similar to that employed by political leaders, and, while rich houses and large firms are benefited by the new laws, men of small capital find their business nearly ruined.

THE PACIPIC MAIL PROBLEM
received no solution yesterday. The stock was exceptionally strong, and it seemed to be undergoing manipulation by the old desiers in it. The Acapulco, which was to have sailed yesterday, will not leave until Tuesday next.

MERTHOS AND DIVIDNADS.

At the annual election of the New York Fire Insurance Company, held on the loth of February, Mr. Daniel Undermill, who has been connected with the company for many years, was re-elected President and Mr. Augustus Colson Secretary. A meeting of the first mortgage bondholders of the Great Western Railroad Company of 1859 and the Runois and Southern lows Hailroad Company was held yesterday siternoon as the offices of G. Haven & Co., No. 17 Wall street. Over eight hundred thousand dollars' worth of bonds were represented, and Daniel E. Lord presided. After a brief discussion it was decided that the first mortgage bondholders of the Great Western Railroad Company of 1859, and the Illinois and Southern lows Railroad Company, both of the State of Illinois, being desirons of protecting their interests by seeing that the earnings of these roads are applied according to priority of liens, and not devoted to the payment of the floating bearing the second and Baidwin a committee to apply—if necessary, by judicial proceedings—for the appointment of a receiver to carry out the above objects. AUCTION SALE OF THE PARISIAN FINERY SEIZED ON BOARD THE VILLE DE PARIS-A LARGE CROWD AT THE SALESROOM-DISAPPOINTED SPECTATORS-A TERRIPLE CRUSH TO GET IN AND TO GET OUT-NONE OF THE CHARMING OTDIO DEPCEMENT

Whenever the upper tendom get into a little difficulty, the eyes and ears and tongues of plebelans in general are all in a most active con-gition. But especially when the beautiful ladge of the aristocratic avenues and cross streets figure, no matter how remotely, in the smallest sort of to the average appetite for news. Everybody the ne plus ultra of fashion and that it would be a horrid outrage if their lovely faces and ravishing forms were not set off to the very best advantage by all that art could lend to their personal attrac-

THESE CHARMING GIRLS arrayed themselves in such elegant costumes, and where the entrancing styles came from would naturally be of great interest to the inquiring mul. titude; and when, therefore, Mile, Lécuie Jouvin, hailing from No. 24 rue Grammont, Paris, and who is a professional in the matter of "robes, lingerie, confection et haute nouveauté," was arrested charged with smuggling into this port from Prance several and various of the above named robes, lingerie, &c., there was a considerable star in many circles of society, for the reason that the merchants and bankers were mentioned in connection with Mademoiselle's attempt to cheat the revenue. Mile. Léonie (the lady's business name) was at the time arrested and locked up, and, sad to say, her friends and patrons abandoned her in her distress, earing, as the gossips say, that the names of her young lady patrons might come to light if their patrons abandoned ner in her clastess, patrons, as the gossips say, that the names of her young lady patrons might come to light if their gentlemen friends came to the rescue. In a quiet way, however, ball was procured, and Mademoiselle was set at liberty, but when she was tried before an American Judge and jury she was FOUND GUILTY AND SENTENCED to three months in the County Jail, where the unhappy, enterprising lady is still domiciled. Five trunks inil of the robes, lingerie, confection et haute nouveauté were seized on board the steamer, and public auction of the same yesterday took place at the salesroom of Burdett & Dennis, auctioneers, No. 29 Buring slip. The robes, dresses, garments, lingerie, &c., were all displayed along the walls of the capacions salesroom to the best advantage, and boxes of trifics, some costly and others of trifing value, were stowed in some mysuc receptacie in the neighborhood of the succioneer's stand. It is unnecessary to repeat the hundred and one articles, in every imaginable style, which were sput to the auctioneer's hammer, it being sufficient to state that every imaginable article of indica' apparel was

Exhibited for the GAZE OF THE THEONG of people who attended the auction. At noon, when the sale opened, standing room could not be had in the store, and a large crowd eager for admission hung anxiously and inquiringly on the actual cheir way as well as they could inside the door, an occurrence which made all the gentlemen on the outskirts anticipate some pleasant episodes during the day, for it had been rumored that the lovely belies who had ordered the robes, lingerie, &c., would not allow them to be sacrificed and would "buy them in." At this time there was a terrible crush in the store, men and women being pushed hither and thither in waves of motion, beginning at either end of the hall. Elbows were freely used for self-protection, and after a short time the people at the further end of their lives, slid themselves down to the sidewalk amid Various rumors were affoat, yesterday as to who these voung addes were who had had such frauduient designs on the revenue, and names were freely given. As it is presumable that this was a first offence against the laws of this country and the safety of our institutions, these "charming" girls are hereby notified that for this once the world shail not be enlightened as to who they are; but, in the language of the philosopher, they had oetter "look snarp."

THE POST OFFICE. DELAY IN THE ARRIVAL OF THE MAILS-DE-

LIVERY OF ST. VALENTINE'S MISSIVES. Owing to the recent stormy weather and the prevalence of snow and ice throughout the country, most of the mails due in the city yesterday morning were several hours behind time. The Southern, due at twelve M. arrived at half nest one P. M., and the Erie mail, which should have put in an appearance at eight o'clock A. M., did not reach the Post Office until half past one P. M. Large quantities of ice were reported on the track, causing the delay. The through Western, which was due at seven A. M., also arrived at half past one P. M. Later in the day an improvement was observed, owing probably to the effect of the one P. M. Later in the day an improvement was observed, owing probably to the effect of the milder temperature upon the rails, and the afternoon mails were mostly on time.

THE VALENTINE SEASON.

Inquiry at the city delivery department developed the fact that the devotees of St. Valentine, successor of the smail god Cupid, retired with the other dettes of the ancient mythology to the shades of Diympus, had commenced their annual efforts in adding to the burdens of the carriers, though as yet to no alarming extent. However, the "lightning stamper" was kept pretty busy during the day, and "the man in reserve" confidently expected to be called on during the evening. Said an obliving official of the department to a Herald reporter, "You see the general collection comes down at eight and eleven o'clock at night, and that will feton them in immense quantities; but, bless you! not so many as there used to be nor so large. They are mostly of the ordinary letter size now, and we don't get as many boxes as we did formerly, nor so many of those great elaborately worked envelopes, covered with Cupids, hearts, doves and other emblems of affection. They used to suffer some in going through the mails in despite of all we could do, and we couldn't do much. No, we don't get so many boxes as we used to, only from Philadelphia. Now, that's curious, isn't it? But we get more boxes on St. Valentine's but from Philadelphia than from all the rest of the country combined. And they keep it up; conservative sort of people over there, and don't change much."

The reporter here broke in upon a reverie into which the official was failing upon the subject of boxes by the question, "Do you employ any extra force of carriers or keep them working additional nours."

"Oh, no. We haven't done so heretofore and there is no likelihood that we shall be compelled to this season. It grows less and less; there is not as much sentiment in the world as there used to be, and what there is does not manitest itself through painted and elaborately worked mi
